Be Water! Leadership Lessons from the Philosophy of Bruce Lee

Most people know that Bruce Lee was a great martial artist, martial arts instructor and actor, but most don't know was also an accomplished actor, director and philosopher. He was the founder of Jeet Kune Do, a hybrid martial arts philosophy which draws from numerous combat disciplines and is often credited with paving the way for modern mixed martial arts (MMA).

His multi-disciplinary, flexible approach to martial arts is the same approach today's leaders need to embrace. It's no longer about mastering one leadership style or skill but being skilled in multiple styles and knowing when to use them.

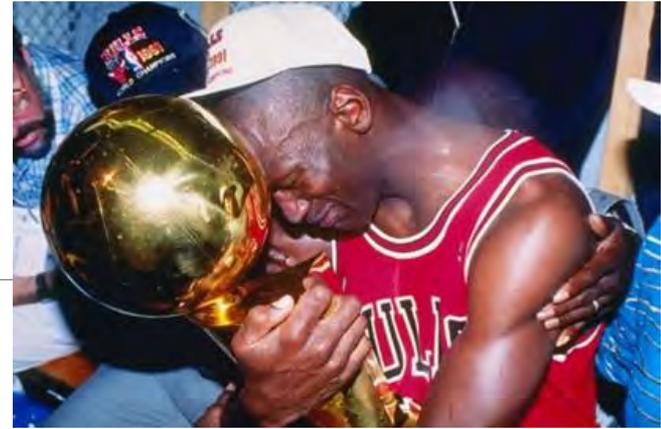

In this session, the audience will learn how to utilize multiple leadership tools and adapt them to any leadership encounter.

How Leadership is Like Golf

Sports provides a powerful metaphor for leadership as they remind us that leadership can be applied in sports situations as well as in life. Of all the sports, golf is the one that compares most directly to leadership. It's individually focused. Each golf course and each hole is different just like each leadership encounter is different. Improvement only occurs through practice and coaching.

In this session, participants will learn the parallels between leadership and golf, as well as how to apply golf improvement techniques to their everyday practice of leadership.

Lead Like a Champion! 5-Steps to Better Leadership

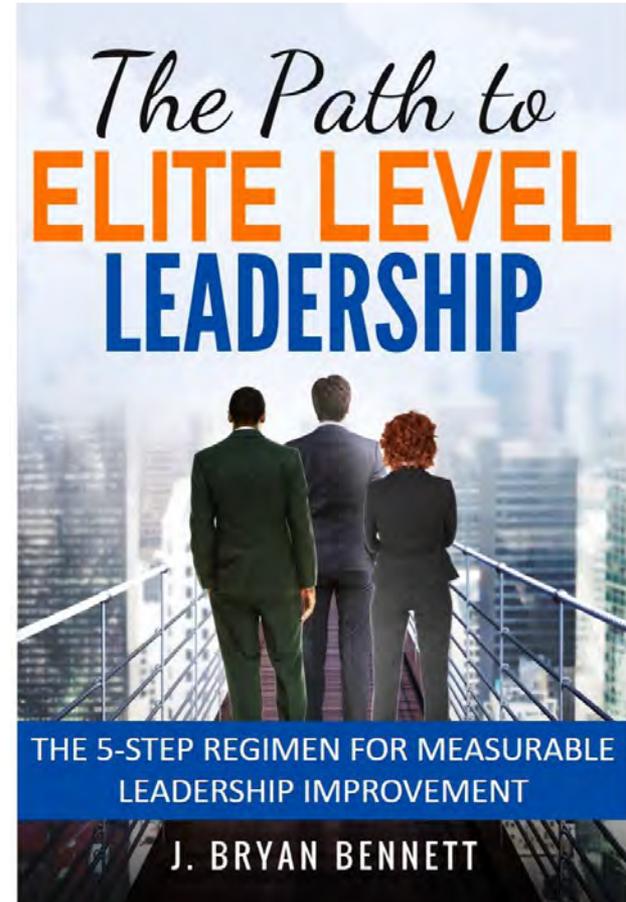

There's a big difference between elite athletes who win championships and Olympic medals and all others. These athletes are dedicated to a regular practice and improvement regimen that results in improving on their already exceptional abilities.

Leaders should take a similar approach to their leadership, which can only be improved with a practice and improvement regimen that includes regular review/reflection and coaching.

In this session, participants will learn how to incorporate the champion leadership mindset and regimen of an elite athlete into their everyday practice of leadership.
